

Leaders Trying to Head Crisis in Argentina

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Rebel army troops vowing to oust President Jose Maria Guido halted their armed march on the capital early today while top Argentine leaders conferred on ways to avoid bloodshed. The rebels reportedly were demanding establishment of a military dictatorship.

Loyalist army troops, backed by tanks and other armored vehicles, were poised on the other side of Buenos Aires. Sailors and marines blockaded approaches to the city under orders to head off an army clash.

The navy intervention, ostensibly in a peace-making role, appeared to favor the rebels. Pro-insurgent troops aided the marines and sailors in obstructing the advance of loyalist troops from the south.

Scattered shooting broke out in the city, but no major fighting was reported.

Guido met with rebel leader Maj. Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero at the president's suburban residence in an effort to find a solution to the three-day-old crisis, Argentina's third major upheaval in four months.

Guido had already given in to the rebel demand when he fired controversial War Secretary Lt. Gen. Eduardo Senorans early today after Senorans had been in office only 12 hours. Senorans was the second war secretary to quit in two days at the demand of Toranzo Montero.

Toranzo Montero, pint-sized commander of the 4th Army Corps with headquarters in Salta, launched his rebellion Wednesday when he went to the remote city of Jujuy, 800 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, and proclaimed himself army commander in chief. He demanded then that Guido fire Juan Bautista Loza, war minister and army commander in chief. Loza quit that night.

Guido's appointment of Senorans fired the crisis once again. The rebels demanded that the post go to Lt. Gen. Arturo Ossorio Arana, and declared "We will fight" rather than accept Senorans.

Senorans served as the first chief of staff after the military ousted dictator Juan D. Peron in 1955. Ossorio Arana was his successor. He is considered more adamantly anti-Peronist.

Toranzo Montero, imprisoned three years under the Peron dictatorship, came to Buenos Aires Friday but boycotted the meeting that Defense Minister Jose Luis Cantillo called to select Loza's successor.

Toranzo Montero instead went to the Palermo headquarters of the 1st Army mobile division in the northwest part of the Buenos Aires federal district to await the meeting's decision.

On learning of Senorans' selection, a rebel spokesman declared: "Combat is the only answer. There is no other way."

The rebel spokesman said the insurgents were determined "to oust President Guido, and the man who will replace him is Gen. Arturo Ossorio Arana."

At first, the insurgents appeared concerned only with the War Ministry, but sources in and out of the rebel camp said the insurgents intended to go much further. The informants said the rebellion's aim was to create "a democratic military dictatorship to rule the country for at least five years."

Must Petition Independents

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An independent candidate in the November general election must be "nominated" by a petition of qualified electors in his area, the attorney general's office said today.

The opinion went to county clerk J. B. Stevenson of Mena, who said a prospective candidate for county judge, Henry Berry, wanted to know the procedure.

Act 6 of 1961 provides that an independent candidate must obtain between 50 and 1,000 signatures of qualified voters in order to run for any state, district or county office.

French Forest Fire

DRAGUIGNAN, France (AP)—The wind picked up velocity along the Riviera today, blowing new life into dying forest and brush fires.

Earlier today the wind had died down.

The fires swept more than 6,000 acres of the Riviera between Ste. Maxime and Frejus. No casualties were reported.

Ike Lunches With Queen of England

LONDON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had lunch at Buckingham Palace with Queen Elizabeth II today and then called on his old friend, Sir Winston Churchill.

Eisenhower drove to London's Middlesex Hospital in mid-afternoon in an American Embassy car escorted by two motorcycle police.

Sir Winston 87, recovering in the hospital since June 29 from a broken hip, was reported to be out of bed and sitting up in a chair. His wife, Lady Churchill, visited him a short time before Eisenhower arrived and said Sir Winston "seems a lot better and is happy."

Eisenhower was greeted by loud cheers from a crowd of 200 as he entered the hospital. He responded by giving the crowd his familiar two-handed wave and smiled to hospital employees and office workers nearby who were learning from windows.

The former president and his wife lacked the lively company of Prince Philip at the palace luncheon.

The queen's husband, the conversational dynamo at most Buckingham Palace meals, was sailing at the Royal Cowes Regatta, and getting a ducking when his boat capsized.

A palace spokesman described the luncheon as "a small gathering—and a very quiet one."

One of Ike's old friends, Brig. Gen. ...

Legislators Answer Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A taxpayer suit against three state legislators was answered Thursday by Rep. E. L. (Van) Mosley of Ouachita County, who routinely denied all allegations.

Mosley, along with Rep. Loid Sadler of Conway County was accused of holding dual public offices in violation of the state constitution.

Sadler is chairman of the state Pardons and Parole Board while Mosley is a member of the board at Southern State College, Magnolia.

Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County also was named by the suit which alleges he wrongfully drew state travel expenses for two trips as speaker for the Legislative Council.

Life Expectancy Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service says American babies born last year have a life expectancy of 70.2 years.

The estimate announced Thursday was the first topping the 70-year mark. The figure for 1960 was 69.9 years.

Too Ill for Funeral

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eddie Cantor's family says the comedian is ill to attend private funeral services today for his wife, Ida. Cantor, 70, collapsed in a state of shock when told his wife of 48 years, also 70, died of a heart attack Wednesday in their home.

Cantor, also suffering from a heart ailment, was given a sedative and put to bed.

Berlin Build Up Guards Released

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—The last remnants of the Berlin build-up force at Ft. Chaffee packed their bags today to depart for home and civilian life early Saturday.

Nearly 2,000 remaining National Guard and Army Reserve troops will be the last to leave, vacating the huge Army post for incoming regular troops, some from Europe.

The 100th Division Training from Kentucky and 21 supporting Reserve and Guard units spent more than 10 months at Chaffee training 30,000 fighting men, 11,000 supply handlers and about 800 cooks.

The exodus of the men from Chaffee began Aug. 1 when support units began leaving for home. The ones who remain will gather late today for final ceremonies in which the 100th Division will lower the flags for the last time.

Maj. Gen. Dillman Rasch, commander of the 100th, and Maj. Gen. W. C. Bullock, commander of Chaffee, will preside.

All reserve and guard equipment already has been shipped to the hometowns of the various units. The troops will leave in private cars.

Bullock and his staff are busy getting ready for the regular Army personnel scheduled to move into Chaffee in mid-September. An artillery center will be established at the fort with the mission of training artillery units.

Eight units are scheduled to be transferred to Chaffee from other 7th Army installations, 12 new regular Army units are to be activated and three other units will be rotated from Europe.

The top unit scheduled to move to Chaffee is the 3rd U.S. Army Corps Artillery Headquarters, formed recently as a new Strategic Army Corps command element of the joint Army-Air Force U.S. Strike Command.

Other major units expected include four eight-inch howitzer battalions, a missile battalion and an engineer combat battalion.

Public to Get Kennedy's Tax Talk Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will tell American taxpayers Monday whether he thinks an immediate tax cut is needed to feed more dollars into the sputtering economy.

The announcement that he will "discuss the nation's economy" on radio and television at 7 p.m. EDT Monday came after a White House conference on Friday between Kennedy and his top economic advisers.

Talk at the high-level meeting centered on the figures for the economy in July—the indicators Kennedy said would help him decide whether the economy needs more fuel to start it climbing again.

Some of the indicators point up, causing a rush of reports that Kennedy has made up his mind not to ask for an immediate cut but to stick to his plans for a reduction effective Jan. 1.

But the bare White House statement went no farther than saying he will discuss the economy.

In any case, Kennedy is expected to reiterate his opinion that personal and corporate income taxes should come down—with the reduction effective not later than Jan. 1—and to press again for congressional action on other measures he has proposed to needle the economy.

His half-hour talk will be carried live by the ABC, CBS and NBC television networks in the Eastern and Central time zones, and replayed from tape at 7 p.m. local daylight time in the Mountain and Pacific time zones. All radio networks, including Mutual, will carry it live at 7 p.m. EDT.

The July figures Kennedy and his advisers are using to chart the economy's current health reportedly show a sluggish advance. The employment statistics, already announced, revealed a slight improvement in the job situation. There were also rises in retail sales and personal income.

But the picture is far short of rosy predictions made at the start of the year.

Another factor the President has to take into consideration is some formidable congressional opposition to a tax cut. A group of AFL-CIO labor union leaders who had lunch with Kennedy Wednesday came away saying he was doubtful Congress would be willing to approve a reduction this year.

Balance of Deficit Payments Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. balance of payments deficit dropped sharply to an annual rate of about a billion dollars in the April-June quarter, the Commerce Department reported today.

This figure, which is subject to revision, compared with an annual rate of $1.9 billion in the first three months of 1962.

For the first half of the year, the deficit ran at an annual rate of just under $1.5 billion. For all of 1961, the deficit was $2.5 billion.

The payments deficit represents the difference between the amount that Americans spend, lend, invest and give away abroad and the lesser amount received from foreign sources. Deficits give foreigners extra dollars which they may use to buy American goods.

Persistent deficits during the past decade have led to a steady drain on U.S. gold reserves, which have fallen to a 23-year low of $16.1 billion. The government is trying to eliminate the deficit situation because continued losses of gold would threaten the stability of the dollar in international money markets.

Two factors apparently were paramount in causing the April-June improvement in the deficit rate.

First, the nation's trade surplus expanded as exports rose by nearly $300 million while the increase in imports was held to $140 million.

Second, Canada's balance of payments difficulties curbed the flow of capital to that country.

Albert Pike's 'Magnolia' Is Fine Tribute to This Area's Most Beautiful Tree

By MARY ANITA LASETER

For our look at flowers this month we turn to, perhaps, the most famous of all southern blossoms — the magnolia. The magnolia trees in Southwest Arkansas have long been famous and held in awe by visitors and natives alike.

In 1890 Fay Hempstead's "Pictorial History of Arkansas" described the beautiful trees in Washington as being "of very great size." Some of them, the author wrote, had been brought to the town about 1843. "Magnolia trees, of about the same age, possess a height of from 60 to 70 feet."

An earlier admirer of the beauty of the magnolia at Washington was the renowned Albert Pike. After he resigned from the Confederate Army, he came to Washington and lived in the home of his friend, Col. Elter. There, he wrote his masterpiece of Masonic literature, and also found inspiration to express himself in verse. Since Washington has the largest and most beautiful magnolia tree in our country, it is understandable why Gen. Pike was moved to pen his "National Song," "The Magnolia."

"What, what is the true Southern symbol,
The symbol of Honor and Right,
The emblem that suits a brave people
In arms against numbers and might?"

"Tis the ever-green stately Magnolia
Its pearl-flowers pure as the Truth,
Defiant of tempest and lightning,
Its life a perpetual youth."

French blood stained with glory
The Lilies,
While centuries marched to their grave,
And over bold Scot and gay Irish
The thistle and shamrock yet wave:

Ours, ours the noble Magnolia
That only on Southern soil
Grows,
The symbol of life everlasting;

Let the Eagle still thieve for our foes,
For a name among Earth's ancient Nations,
Yet more for the Truth and the Right,
For freedom, for proud Independence,

The old strife of darkness and light
Round the world bear the flag of our glory,
While the nations look on and admire,
And our struggle, immortal in story,
Shall the free of all ages inspire.

June 1863

Paint the flower on a field blue
as Heaven,
Let the broad leaves around it be seen,
'Sempervirens' the eloquent motto.

Our colors the blue, white, and green,
Type of chivalry, loyalty, virtue,
In winter and summer the same,
Full of leaf, full of flower, full of vigor —
It befits those who fight for a name.

For a name among Earth's ancient Nations,
Yet more for the Truth and the Right,
For freedom, for proud Independence,
The old strife of darkness and light

Round the world bear the flag of our glory,
While the nations look on and admire,
And our struggle, immortal in story,
Shall the free of all ages inspire.

Several Drugs in Death of Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The coroner says more than one drug may have been involved in Marilyn Monroe's death.

Dr. Theodore J. Curphey said Thursday that toxicological researchers are interested in at least a dozen prescription bottles found in the blonde actress' home.

He added that an inquest in the case had not been ruled out.

Miss Monroe was found dead at her home last Sunday. Death was attributed to a massive dose of barbiturates. Police found an empty bottle that had contained Nembutal tablets on her nightstand.

The coroner said he will meet today with psychiatrists who are delving into the actress' final days to determine whether she deliberately killed herself.

A determination on whether suicide was involved, he said, is not likely before next Monday.

Miss Monroe's will, containing bequests for her half-sister, Bernice Maracle, and friends, will be submitted for probate within a week, the actress' attorneys said.

Milton Rudin and Aaron Frosch said the will was executed in New York City on Jan. 14, 1961.

Suit Against U. S. Settled

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A $35,000 suit against the government as a result of a military plane crash here March 31, 1960, has been settled for $3,500, officials said Thursday.

U.S. Attorney Robert D. Smith, who announced the settlement, said Miss Rita Faye Francis of Little Rock had accepted the terms in her personal injury suit.

It is subject to approval by federal Judge Gordon E. Young.

Five persons, including three in the Air Force B47 bomber and two civilians on the ground killed when the plane exploded over the city.

School Debt in Arkansas Up $8 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Education Department reported Thursday the public school debt in Arkansas had increased by over $8 million in the past fiscal year.

To a record $114,205,252.

Despite the enormous indebtedness, 418 Arkansas school districts could still legally borrow $97,398,066, based on a combined assessed valuation of $1,410,688,000.

But, the department reported, three districts, East Side in Conway, Alma and Oak, had exceeded or reached the limits of their borrowing power on June 30, the last day of the past fiscal year.

Seven other districts had exceeded the 15 per cent limit of their latest evaluation, while of the remaining districts, 92 had debt ratio ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, 195 ranged from 5 to 10 per cent and 107 from 1 to 5 per cent.

State laws allow school districts to borrow up to 15 per cent of their assessed valuation, with the state Board of Education empowered to increase this to 18 per cent.

Only 14 school districts in the state were debt free during the year.

They were the Baxter County District, Carroll County District, Chicot County District, Collins District in Drew County, Fulton County District, Guernsey and Patmos Districts in Hempstead County.

Magnet Cove District in Hot Spring County, Jefferson County District, Mississippi county District, St. Francis County District, Junction City and Lawson Districts in Union County, and the Fourche Valley District in Yell County.

Charges Dropped in Burglary

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Charges against a Texan in connection with the $25,000 April 15 burglary of a Little Rock department store were dropped Thursday.

John B. Noble, 40, of Dallas, was one of four men arrested and charged with burglarizing the M. M. Cohn Co. in which $17,000 in cash and $8,000 in clothing and merchandise were taken.

Pros. Atty. John T. Jernigan said the complaint against Noble was dropped after the FBI reported he was not in Little Rock at the time of the burglary.

The other three arrested are John Oscar Luck, 32, of Dallas, Ga., Ronald Edward Smith of Atlanta, Ga., and Marion Robert Ruff, 33, of Deluth, Ga.

All three have pleaded not guilty to the charge and are free under $10,000 bonds awaiting their Sept. 7 trial.

Some of the clothing has been recovered but none of the money has been found.

To Direct Theater

LONDON (AP)—Sir Laurence Olivier is to be the first director of Britain's new National Theater.

His appointment was announced Thursday by the National Theater Board. The theater is to be built with government money on the old Festival of Britain site on the south bank of the River Thames. The target date for opening is 1964.

Contest to Start

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Fifty-three lovelies—entrants in the Miss International Beauty Contest—rise early today to have breakfast on Long Beach Pier.

Dressed in their native costumes, the contestants met each other and newsmen Thursday at Municipal Airport.

Judging starts next Wednesday, ends Aug. 18.

'Voluntary' Job Rights to Be Recommended

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A still labor lawyer proposes a top level shakeup of President Kennedy's committee on equal job rights for Negroes, a well placed government source said today.

As outlined by the government source, the proposed reorganization may well turn out to be political dynamite for the Kennedy administration among Negro voters.

The report was prepared by Theodore Kheel at the request of Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

It advises, the source said, that the government emphasize voluntary rather than compulsory compliance with Kennedy's anti-discrimination employment order for contractors doing business with it.

John Feild, executive director of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, has told his staff that if the plan is carried through, he will resign.

Feild is known through the government as a strong advocate of enforcing the President's anti-discrimination order.

Robert Troutman Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., a friend of Kennedy and also a close friend of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., has set up a separate program based on voluntary rather than compulsory compliance.

Troutman, a member of the President's committee, calls his voluntary program the "plan for progress."

Troutman, who maintains a separate staff and a separate office, has signed up 85 of the nation's largest corporations in the voluntary program. These firms employ about 4.5 million people.

The source said that while Troutman had shown the white-Negro employment records of 52 of the firms to Feild's staff, he had yet to make reports on the other 33.

The Kheel report, the source added, suggests more reliance on Troutman's plan for voluntary achievement of improved equal rights employment practices than on compulsory compliance.

He added that the proposal has the support of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, chairman of the committee.

The report by Kheel, former president of the National Urban League and now president of the newly founded Ghandi Society for Human Rights, also recommends that the job of executive vice chairman be made into a paid position. This would downgrade Feild.

The executive vice chairman's job is now held on an acting basis by a Goldberg assistant, Stephen Shulman.

In the aftermath of the Kheel report two men are reported under consideration to fill the executive vice chairmanship on a permanent basis.

They were identified by the source as Hobart Taylor Jr., and Benjamin Mays, both Negroes.

Taylor, a wealthy Detroit lawyer, is a special assistant to Johnson and also a special counsel for the employment committee.

Mays is president of Morehouse College, a part of Atlanta University in Atlanta, Ga.

Operation Saved Prune Belly Baby

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 8-year-old boy, bright eyed and sparkling, sat quietly at a news conference while a surgeon told how the youngster had been taken apart and put back together again.

Timmy McCabe, born without abdominal muscles, was one of those rare cases doctors call "prune bellies." His internal organs were out of place, swollen and infected at birth. He was given virtually no chance to live.

"Give him lots of love," physicians said eight years ago. "There's nothing we can do for him."

But Dr. John M. Southwell, senior surgical resident of Children's Hospital, explained Thursday that Timmy could expect to live a normal life—but probably shouldn't play tackle football.

Timmy is alive, the doctor said, because of an operation thought to be one of the first successful ones of its kind ever performed.

Timmy has been a frequent patient at Children's Hospital through most of his life. After five previous operations, he was wheeled into surgery last July 17. Surgeons worked for five hours to provide support for the distended abdomen previously held in by tight jeans and corsets.

The organs were put in their proper places. The abdominal tissue was tightened and stitched together like a vest.

A long leg muscle was severed, brought up and fastened to the 10th rib—resulting in a suspender-like support crossed in front. Shorter lengths of the same muscle were anchored in the lower abdomen.

Dr. Southwell said loss of the leg muscles won't prevent Timmy from walking or running because humans have more leg muscles than they need.

For eight years, Dr. Southwell explained, Timmy was kept alive by antibiotics and loving care. The rest of his body developed normally.

Timmy's mother, Mrs. Marvin McCabe, wife of a space technology laboratory technician, says her son has kept up on his studies and plans to enter the fourth grade this fall.

Jimmy added: "I want to be a surgical doctor when I grow up. It'll be easier for me than most because I already know so much about it."

Only Danger Keeps Parties Together

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Danger is a kind of glue which keeps Democrats and Republicans together except when the glue melts, which happens frequently and most noticeably in an election year, like this one.

This togetherness, called bipartisanship in foreign affairs, is an effort by the two parties to put up a united front against troubles abroad while differing on things at home.

Yet, although they agree a danger of communism must be sluffed around everywhere, they frequently get stuck on the question of how. It happened again this week. Just three months before congressional elections.

The Republican Senate Leader, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, said the Kennedy administration sent its representative to Geneva "hat in hand" to make concessions to the Russians on a nuclear test-ban treaty.

And in this same mission to Switzerland New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, seeking reelection this November, saw a "weakening" and "high risk" danger in the American proposals.

Later he said his criticism didn't mean a change in his attitude that national issues should be kept out of the state election campaign although Democrats may wonder why then he was critical in the first place.

The State Department quickly disputed the Dirksen-Rockefeller views. But no one, remembering the record of other years, need fear the fractures, bruises and abrasions bipartisanship suffers in 1962 will be fatal.

In 1950, when president Truman sent troops into war in Korea just a little over five months before the congressional elections, Republicans, particularly Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, hardly looked bipartisan.

Taft said this country had "invited" the Korean War. And Rep. Leonard Hall of New York, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee complained Truman administration bungling led to the war.

The Republican National Committee put out a document listing what it called foreign policy failures under the Democrats.

The Republican rat-a-tat on the opposition got so bad that year that Thomas E. Dewey, titular head of the Republicans at that time, called for a closing of ranks in the "national emergency."

The Republicans didn't have bipartisanship among themselves. In 1951 their own leadership split on whether American troops should be sent to Europe.

It was in the 1952 presidential campaign that bipartisanship took a long and painful vacation.

But Dwight D. Eisenhower got elected president that year and for the next eight years it was the Republicans who made foreign policy, the first time they had a chance to since 1932.

In the 1954 congressional election year—after the peace settlement that gave the Communists half of Indochina—Adlai E. Stevenson complained the United States, although not directly involved in the fighting, had suffered a "devastating loss."

He also had a few things to say on bipartisanship, or the lack of it, particularly among the Republicans themselves.

But anyone who remembers the 1956 election campaign—especially what Stevenson had to say about Eisenhower's foreign policy—will hardly recall it as a happy time for bipartisanship.

Came the 1958 congressional election year. Democrats attacked the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign affairs with such gusto that Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were split on how to handle the critics.

Eisenhower wanted to ignore them. Nixon said that was all right for a man in Eisenhower's position but, as for himself, he was going to fire back. And he did.

Everybody remembers 1960.

Are All Men Potential Casanovas? Asks Divorcee

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: What has happened to the morals of our society? Every man I date wants to show me his elchings. If I don't cry, "Goody, when?" it's hello and farewell. I am a divorcee but widows tell me they have the same trouble. My clothes are conservative, my tastes conventional, and I'm 32 years old yet, from the way men proposition me, you'd think me flapping youth out for a night on the town.

My husband and I parted because he chased skirts. At the time I thought him the exception to the rule. Now, I realize he was only being one of the boys. Are all males alike, or do just some believe they are Casanovas reincarnated? I'd appreciate finding one who would respect a woman enough to date her for companionship. Am I asking too much? Is chivalry a thing of the past? These gazooks it has been my misfortune to draw either call me frigid or an odd ball—just because I am decent. If these are the men of today I'll stay single, lonely and at peace with my conscience. —Disillusioned

Dear Disillusioned: Don't take the passes too seriously. The boys mean well, even though clumsy in their approach. A more intelligent male would first woo a woman's mind but such men are not average. If those wolves were interviewed I'm sure all would insist they were simply paying you a routine compliment. Or, though not admitting it, they may be boasting. Men are such egoists, but the more conservative you are, the bigger the challenge to them. Your mistake was in being too serious. Had you practiced the art (which every woman should know) of remaining once alluring yet aloof, the same boys would still be camping on your doorstep. Play the game lightly and keep your sense of humor.

Dear Helen: The peace of a 12-year-old marriage has been broken in our home. Several weeks ago a friend of my husband's wrote us, inviting himself and his friend—whom I've never met, for a couple of weeks. I was getting the house ready for an impending two months' visit from my mother who lived in another state. I only see her briefly once a year and was looking forward to having her get acquainted with our children.

I asked my husband to write his friend, explain the situation and say we would work it some other time. Frankly, I did not relish the idea of having an unmarried couple in our home. This wife and small baby descended upon us last summer, at their own invitation—hoping for a reconciliation. It was anything but pleasant for they quarreled continuously. I thought my husband understood my feeling so said nothing further. Now, my mother has been here two weeks and he wrote the husband and girl friend only last night, inviting them to come! I exploded but he refused to discuss the matter. It hurts me deeply to think he cares so little for my feelings. Or, would you say it was the other way around? If I'm unreasonable, tell me. —Bewildered and Hurt

Dear Bewildered: Marriage is compromise—give and take. Shorten your mother's visit—if you can do so diplomatically. But first drop your husband's friends a little note, telling the circumstances and asking them if they would either postpone their stay at your home until a week after your mother leaves—giving you a chance to rest, or, come later on possibly for a holiday weekend. Keep the tone as cordial as possible and show the letter to your husband before mailing it. Apologize for the blow-up. Loss of temper is loss of face. To put it bluntly, it looks as if your husband has had too much mother-in-law.

Dear Helen: My boy friend and I have been living together for three years and have a very happy home. My husband died six years ago, our daughter married well and I was left a lonely widow, hence this informal arrangement. My daughter hasn't been home since her marriage. She being a prunes and prisms girl, I have never told her about the boy friend. Now, she writes she is coming to see me. I long to have her home but—what can I do with him? We truly love each other. —Lonesome and Afraid

Dear Lonesome: The solution is simple. Marry the boy friend. Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine care of this newspaper and be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "A Sense of Humor."

Ike Lunches

Gen. Sir James Gault, accompanied the Eisenhowers to the palace, and sat in for Prince Philip, Eisenhower, with his wife and grandchildren—Barbara Anne, 13 and David, 14—arrived Thursday night from Paris for a 12-day sentimental visit to Britain. While the former chief executive and Mrs. Eisenhower were at Buckingham Palace, the grandchildren went sightseeing by car.

The Eisenhowers rode to the palace in a New York taxi which is used by the U.S. Embassy in London for important guests. It flew a five-star flag and carried an international license tag—USA.

As the Eisenhowers neared busy Charing Cross, in the heart of London, traffic policemen turned all the lights on red and waved like through. A crowd of about 2,000, including many American tourists, was outside the palace as the cab drove in.

Tonight, Eisenhower is dining with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The ex-president and his family expect to spend about six days sightseeing in London before heading north for Scotland to stay in their own apartment at ancient Culzean Castle.

The only battles he will need to fight are those with the goit busters of Troon and Prestwick. "May he win them all! We still like Ike," glowed the Daily Telegraph.

The Western concessions were offered on condition that the Soviets give firm prior commitment to the principle of compulsory on-the-spot checks of suspected treaty violations by international inspection teams.

"If the Soviet Union stops (its current series of) tests and accepts our offer, we will stop our testing tonight," Dean told Zorin. Zorin insisted on a recess in negotiations of the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament talks.

"There is no sense to go into detailed discussion now," he said, "because the U.S. position has not been changed in principle and there cannot be an agreement on the basis which the United States proposes."

The subcommittee members decided not to meet again until the full disarmament conference devotes a full session to the test ban deadlock. The meeting was set for Tuesday.

Afterward, Dean expressed bitter disappointment at the Soviet position but indicated that the West had gone about as far as it would go toward meeting the Soviets on a test ban treaty.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is said to take the lives of some 300 persons every year.

The counties involved are St. Francis, Crittenden, Cross, Monroe, Lee and Phillips.

Principal crops there now are rice, soybeans and cotton. But the fertile soil will produce okra, cucumbers, field peas, sweet potatoes, beans and the like in the summer and greens in the winter.

These crops would go to such processors as Gerber, H. L. Hunt and the Birdseye division of General Foods, which is now building a complete new processing facility at Searcy.

Also interested in the crops produced in the area are such retail markets as Safeway, Kroger and Weingarten.

A large part of the groundwork in the project is being laid by two divisions — research and extension — of the University of Arkansas.

The research division has determined the feasibility of raising certain crops in the area. The result of their survey has been turned over to county agents, who work under the extension service.

These agents have talked in the field, at home and over the telephone, to the farmers in the area about the possibilities of raising the sideline crops.

Arkansas processing plants now depend to a great extent on out-of-state raw materials to fill their demands.

The area must first strive to fill the needs of state producers, then try to attract a processing plant. There is, of course, the possibility that a now-existing Arkansas processor will locate closer to the area to take advantage of an increased supply of raw materials.

Specific predictions are almost non-existent in research of this sort. The fact that it is possible for a farmer, under certain conditions, to make so much an acre on a certain crop, is hardly applicable to a six county area unless it is known how many farmers will produce how many acres of the crop and under what market conditions.

Deadlock in Test Talks as Usual

By LOYAL GOULD

GENEVA (AP)—The East-West deadlock on a nuclear test ban treaty deepened today following Soviet rejection of the new U.S. compromise proposal. The Soviets refused even to talk about automatic international inspection on Soviet soil.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin coldly spurned the U.S. plan in a speech prepared even before U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean gave him a general outline Thursday of the plan calling for fewer control posts to detect illegal nuclear blasts and fewer on-site inspections of suspicious events.

Zorin once again adamantly refused to commit his government to the principle of compulsory international inspection and rejected the entire Western formula as "just the old American position dolled up in a new guise to deceive the neutrals."

"From all that we have heard," Zorin said, "It is clear that on the basis of the proposals which Mr. Dean has brought from Washington, no agreement on the cessation of nuclear weapons tests can be reached."

The Western concessions were offered on condition that the Soviets give firm prior commitment to the principle of compulsory on-the-spot checks of suspected treaty violations by international inspection teams.

"If the Soviet Union stops (its current series of) tests and accepts our offer, we will stop our testing tonight," Dean told Zorin. Zorin insisted on a recess in negotiations of the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament talks.

Arkansan Back in Indiana Prison

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Leroy Jones, 29, of Paragould, is back in the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., today to finish a five-year sentence for attempted robbery.

Jones already had served two years of the sentence, and was paroled. He was convicted of a attempted to rob the Marmaduke Bank and Trust Co. in 1955.

U.S. Marshal Pat Henderson in Little Rock said Jones was released on a holdover after serving part of a six-year term in the Arkansas State Penitentiary for passing worthless checks. He was convicted of the check charge in January 1960.

"Pretty girls like admiring looks."

THE SCAR

By RUTH ENGELKEN

Self-consciousness made the young woman bypass the crowded beach in favor of this deserted strip of shore line. She hooked her towel and robe on driftwood antlers before encasing her blonde curls in a cap of rubber daisies. For a few minutes, she stood knee-deep in the surf, her slender body swaying as the waves broke about her, then she flung herself into the icy water.

She swam long, hard strokes, fighting against the irresistible pull of the tide. "Swim again," the doctor had ordered, and she was feeling the therapy of co-ordinated motion of arms and legs.

Physically spent, she made for the shore. She grabbed her towel, humming happily. She jumped when a man cleared his throat, and turned to see a dark haired fellow sunbathing behind the driftwood. "You frightened me. I didn't know anyone was here."

"Nor I." Smiling, he propped himself on his arm. He wore trunks and sunglasses and the whiteness of his teeth contrasted with the bronze of his skin. "I thought all the mermaids used the big beach."

"They do," she said, letting the towel make a rumple of her hair. She noticed that his eyes never left her face. His not looking at her leg helped. "I picked this spot because it's deserted. I—I don't like people's staring."

"But why?" he said, sitting up. He hunched his legs into a pyramid and folded his strong hands over them. "Pretty girls like admiring looks."

"Their looking at my leg bothers me." Suddenly, she turned the scarred flesh in his direction.

His eyes lowered for a second, then found again her face. "What happened?" he asked gently.

"An automobile accident five years ago. A kid's dream, maybe, but I had hoped to swim in the Olympics. The crash ended that. Bitterness etched her tone. He nodded silently. "But the world didn't come to an end, you know. There are always other things to do."

"It didn't seem that way at first," she replied, "but I suppose what can't be cured must be endured."

He smiled broadly. "Good girl."

"But it's not easy," she replied. There was a short moment of silence, as if perhaps he would like to change the subject. But strangers have so little in common that one topic must always be pursued till it is exhausted.

"And now?"

"I teach school," she said. "And you're celebrating your first day of vacation by taking a private dip?"

"Right." After she slipped into the robe, she leaned against the driftwood. "When I'm not swimming, I like to sit and watch the ships and smell the salt air."

"And listen to the roar of the waves and the shriek of the gulls?" His finger traced circles in the sand as she smiled.

She nodded. "Do you come here often?"

"Every day when I'm not on the road."

Let me guess? Professional football?"

The strong line of his jaw softened in a grin. "That was my kid's dream, but you're not even warm. A pianist," he said.

"Does it seem strange?"

She glanced at his powerful hand with its facile fingers. "No."

There was a long pause when only the rhythmic pound of the surf broke the silence. He spoke at last. "You haven't yet accepted the disfigurement?"

"Does one ever?" she countered.

"In time."

She glanced at the rugged perfection of his body. "That's easy to say. You've never had to see that look in people's eyes."

"True," he conceded. A car

McRae Man Dies From Injuries
SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—A McRae Ark., man died today of injuries suffered yesterday in a four-vehicle collision which injured five other persons.
The wreck occurred at the junction of U.S. Highway 67 and state Highway 11, about three miles south of Searcy.
George Parchman, 80, of McRae, a passenger in one of the cars, died early today.
State Trooper Sam Baker said the accident happened this way: A 1957 Ford driven by Joe Lingo of Jonesboro stopped to turn left on Highway 7. A 1956 Dodge driven by Leoday Talkington of Lavaca, stopped behind the Ford.
Then a trailer truck loaded with onions and driven by Crawford Johnson of Hayti, Mo., hit the rear of the Dodge, knocking it across the center line and into the path of a 1957 Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Arthur Woodson of Searcy.
The Dodge bounced back into the right lane and hit the Ford.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables
By John Alden Knight
The schedule of Solunar period as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.
The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Retail Sales Up During July
WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sales increased by two per cent in July—a significant advance—following a two-month decline, the Commerce Department reported today.
Preliminary figures placed July sales at $19,451,000,000—up from the June total of $19,09,000,000. The July level was $19 million higher than the figure for May but fell short of the April peak of $19.6 billion.
The advanced report on retail sales was one of the economic indicators awaited by President Kennedy as he moved toward a decision on whether to ask Congress for a 1962 tax cut. Many economists also had been anticipating the July report as a measure of consumer confidence.
The figures announced today
Injured were Lingo, Mr. and Mrs. Woodson, Mrs. Talkington and Verona Martin, a passenger in the Talkington car.
Parchman also was a passenger in Talkington's Dodge. Parchman's wife died Wednesday of natural causes.

Rain Relieves Some Areas From Heat
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Portions of Arkansas received a respite Thursday from the suffocating August heat, with cooling rain bringing a breath of fresh air.
At Hot Springs, temperatures plummeted from 104 to 88 in a 45-minute period in which heavy rains and hail flooded parts of the city.
Elsewhere, in parts of northwest Arkansas, a heavy thunderstorm warning was in effect for four hours, expiring with little damage reported at 9 p.m.
Hail broke a large plate window at a Hot Springs bottling company and some electrical service in the city was disrupted momentarily because of the storm which brought winds gusting up to 70 miles an hour.
High winds up to 58 miles an hour also were reported at Harrison, with hard wind and hail striking Hartman, Clarksville and Russellville.
The hottest spot in Arkansas Thursday was Fort Smith where the temperature climbed to 104. But Little Rock recorded a 101 and El Dorado reached 100.
Today, the forecast called for clear to partly cloudy through Saturday. Widely scattered thunder-showers west and north today and tonight. Not much temperature change except not as warm north today. High today 88 to 95 extreme north, 95 to 102 elsewhere. Low tonight around 70

Wages Dip Some
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The average weekly salary of factory workers in the Little Rock area dipped slightly in June from the May total, the state Employment Security Division noted Thursday.
The June average was $54.72 compared to $56.01 in May, for workers without dependents and $61.84 compared to $63.16 for workers with three dependents.

2 Missiles Set Off
VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—In quick succession, two giant Atlas missiles thundered skyward toward an impact area 5,000 miles away.
The Air Force said the tests Thursday—the first demonstration of a multiple countdown capability—were successful. But spokesmen declined to say how close the missiles came to their target or what it was.

Paper Is Textbook
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The associate director of the Southern Regional Education Board says the daily newspaper is a living textbook and potentially one of the greatest teaching tools available to the modern classroom teacher.
Rudolph Pale of Atlanta spoke Thursday to a teacher's workshop at the University of Chattanooga.

"We can't seem to break little Napoleon of that habit, but I'm sure he'll outgrow it when he's older."

Canadian Cabinet Is Shuffled
OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker shuffled his cabinet Thursday, moving Donald Fleming out of the finance ministry he headed during perennially unbalanced budgets and the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.
George Clyde Nowlan, 63, minister of national revenue, became finance minister in Diefenbaker's first major cabinet revamping since October 1960. Fleming, 57, was made justice minister and attorney general.
Diefenbaker gave new jobs to six ministers and brought three new men into his cabinet, largely as a result of the defeat of five ministers in the June 18 general elections.

Get Those Birds
APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — County school headquarters has ordered an Apopka school to get rid of those birds in the gymnasium.
In the years—some say it has been at least 10—that the birds have been using the gym as a rain and windproof rooster room, the 75 to 100 sparrows have taken on an air of nasty proprietorship.
Let a boy or girl deign to play a game in their domain and they zoom down from their lofty heights, screeching like banshees.
Maintenance men have begun repairing broken windows and closing up an other opening they hid in the gym.

Arrest Warrant
PARIS (AP)—The French government has issued a warrant for the arrest of Georges Bidault, former premier and head of the underground secret army fight to overthrow President De Gaulle. Bidault, 62, disappeared from France last spring.

Is It Clear to YOU?

Do you find it hard to read?
Is its language too out of date? Have you imagined it contradicts its self?
Are you of the opinion God's love for us is a paradox?
Do you think if God really loved us He would let us be sick, experience pain and suffer death? Is the Bible actually hard for you to understand? If your answer is "yes," then you should enroll in Sunday School, start going to church regularly and join the band of honest, serious seekers after God's own will in your life; the true interpretation of His word. To the believer the Bible makes sense, it is easy to understand and in it there are no contradictions.
